scribers by shifting them upon the town in the way of bonds.

The referee before whom the case was tried allowed the counsel for the town to go behind the affidavits of the assessors and to show that a majority of the taxnayers on the roll did not consent, and that the taxpayers consenting did not represent more than one-balf of the value of the assessed property. The plaintif insisted that he was a bona fide holder, for value, of the coupous, and that the affidavit of the assessors that a majority of taxpayers, representing the major part of the property, and consented, was conclusive and incontrovertible evidence that the requisite consent had been obtained, and that such affidavit attached to the consent and the recording of it in the County Clerk's office were a decision-in the nature of a judgment, which would be conclusive and estop the town unless reversed on certificary or appeal; and the planniff objected to all evidence showing that consent had not been given as contradicting the record.

snowing that coulomb in a not become a record.

The defendant insisted that everybody was bound to know that towns have no power to bond for railroads, unless it were conferred by statute, and that any reasonable construction of the Middland statutes and kindred sets shows that the fact that a majority of taxnayers representing the major part of the property had, consuited, was an indispensable prerequisite and condition reasonable to bonding.

The judgment in favor of the town by the referee was reversed at the General Term, but the Court of Appeals now reverses the latter judgment and sustains the referee. It holds that the affidivit of the assessors was not conclusive evidence and that it might be disproved; that, it having been conclusively shown that a majority of the taxpayers of the town representing more than half of the property had not consented, the bonds and coupons were null and void in whatever limits they might be found. coupons were into a might be found.

RUFUS HATCH'S SUIT. PURTHER ARGUMENTS BEFORE JUDGE SPEIR.

The argument on the motion for a continuance of the tempory injunction granted in the suit of Rofus Hatch against the telegraph companies was con timed yesterday before Judge Speir in the Superior Couri Chambers. William A. Beach, in opening his speech in support of Mr. Hatch's motion said that he was ling to assent to the greater number of the legal pro ositions urged by the counsel for the companies, and esally the proposition that the judgment of Justice Sarrett in the suit in the Supreme Court was conclusive as to the right of the companies to effect a consolidation of their property and interests. He also admitted that if the contract of January 19 had been fully executed be-fore the beginning of this suit, as was allegted in the anawer, no injunction ought or could be granted by the Court. The contract, however, had not been fully executed, but remained still incomplete.

The vital question in the case. Mr. Beach thought, was that the issue of the $15,000,000 of stock to the stockholders of the Western Union Company- to represent its surplus carnings was illegal and void, and that, therefore, the whole contract became impossible of execution When the income of a corporation from the exercise of its public franchises exceeded a fair interest on the capiial invested, the excess belonged to the public, from whose contributious the income was derived, and therefore the stockholders of the Western Union Company had no longer any legal or equitable title to these a part of its permanent capital. Mr. Hatch might ne's, and would probably have gained by so doing; but the issue of this stock was just and equitable. Mr. Eeach and that he did not wish to parade Mr. Hatch before the Court as an especially conscientious man, or to assert that he had been actuated in assuming his present position toward the proposed consolidation by any unusually high-minded sentiment. It might even be assumed that he was not an over-conscientious man, and was not actuated in his present conduct by too fice and conscientious motives, without affecting his right to the relief demanded, for his attitude as it appeared on the record in the case was conscientious and praise worthy.

Anon J. Vanderpoel followed Mr. Beach and becan the closing argument of Mr. Beach, he said, secured to be framed for the sole purpose of exciting the prejudices of the Court and warping its judgment. It had avoided carefully every question of law involved in the case, but it had abcunded in severe and improper strictures upon men who stood quite as well on the record of the Court see Mr. Hatch. Mr. Vanderpoel, in his opening remarks, spoke with evident difficulty, and was obliged to ask the court for an adjournment, as he found himself mable to me of this stock was just and conitable. Mr. Feach Court for an adjournment, as he found himself unable to go on with his argument. Judge Speir adjourned the Court until 11 o'clock this morning.

VERDICT AGAINST THE ELEVATED ROAD. A staging suspended from the bridge across the track of the Elevated Railroad in Third-ave., at Thirty-fourth at., was struck by the smoke stack of ar engine about a year ago and torn away from its fasten-lugs. A painter named Callaban, who was at work on the staging, was thrown into the street and killed. Algernon S. Sullivan, as Public Administrator, began an action in the Supreme Court against the Manhattan Railway Company to recover $5,060 damages for Mr. Callahan's death. It was alleged in the complaint that the smoke-stack of the engine was higher than those of the other engines used on the road, with reference to which the staging had been erected. The company which the staging had been erected. The company decided this allegation, and ascerted that the same engine had persed under the staging several times on the same day and preceding night. The collision, it was said, was caused by the sugging of the ropes by which the staging was supported. The case came for trial yesterday before Justice Barrett, and the jury returned a verdict against the company for $3,000. All of the next of kin of the num who was killed live outside of this State, and the hovel question was raised by the company whether such an action could be sustained by the Public Administrator. Justice Barret held that it could. An appeal probably will be taken upon this point. J. K. Hill, Wing & Shondy appeared for the plaintiff; Dorsheimer, Bacon & Deya for the company.

SEEKING TO REMOVE A RECEIVER. S. S. Randall was appointed by Justice Dono-aue a short time sgo receiver of the Open Beard of Blockbrokers' Building Company, upon the petition of a majority of its directors, and gave a bond of $5,000. Arthur T. Timpson, a stockholder and trustee of the order to remove Mr. Randall on the ground of irregularity. Another motion was made at the same time in alf of Mr. Timpson to compel Mr. Randall, as receiver, to give increased security by executing his bond in the to give increased security by executing his bond in the sum of $200,000. Mr. Timpson in his affidavit alleges that the re-civer will probably come into possession of property of the company amounting to $110,000. This affidavit was opposed by one made by Mr. Kandali, in which he said that the property thus far received by him was worth only $770.56; that the personal property which could come into his hands consisted exclusively of a disputed claim for $15,000, and that the real property was only valued at about $60,000, which was, moreover, subject to a mortgage for $30,600. Ex-Judge Frillerton appeared on the motions for Mr. Timpson, and Sidney S. Harris for Mr. Randali. Justice Lawrence reserved his decision.

NAHANT, MASS.

Best Location on the Atlantic Coast FOR AN ELEGANT SUMMER HOTEL

THE NAHANT LAND COJIPANY

Offers for sale like most designible lot of land in that famons watering place. It contains eight acres. It fronts on the moin street and is bounded by side streets. It fronts on the sanitwest and slopes gradually to the sea. It is particularly well suffed for a hotel site, from its central position, its vicinity to the only steambost landing and its unsurpassed view.

The situation of Nahant for a summer resort is unequalled, Almost an island, joined to the main land by a fine beach between two and three miles long, its load rocks and class, independently well suffer and there with well protected beaches, its peturesque walks, its charming vilas and beautiful lawns, all combins to render it a welcome resting place for men of business and a favorite resort for lovers of the ros.

Nahant has frequent communication with flow, which is about twilve niches distance, by steamer, or by the Eastern and Revere Beach Railways, which are reached by a charming drive over an excellent beach road.

The marveilous prospectly of the new speake hotels near Boston, most of them, in situations neeffedly inferior to Nahant, indicates the success which would attend the building of a first-class hotel here. In fact the present small hotels and boarding houses have of late been wholy inadequate to meet the demand for accommodation. There can be no question of the success of a large well-managed and well-appointed hotel at Nahant.
